infinite seascape, the village seemed compact and claustrophobic, its houses crowded close together in the one small corner of the Great Basket that faced the mainland and offered shelter. The islanders were pragmatic people. In the years after the evacuation they returned in naomhóga to strip their former homes of doors, roof beams and slates, and anything else that might be useful in their new lives.

"It is a truth universally acknowledged that when an Erasmus student departs, a piece of their heart will never come back home.
Because home is many places... and many people."
